

SETH LOW, FORMER MAYOR OF N. Y., DIES

Had Been Ill for Six Months Suffering From Complication of Diseases.

NOTED AS EDUCATOR

Was President of Columbia University and Prominent in Civic Improvement.

Seth Low, former Mayor of New York, died at his country home, Broad Brook Farm, Bedford Hills, N. Y., yesterday afternoon. He had been ill for six months. His condition became such yesterday that the nurses summoned Dr. J. J. Moore, a physician, who had been attending to him. Mr. Low died a few minutes after the physician arrived. Mrs. Low and other members of the household were at the bedside.

For three months prior to his illness, which was a complication of diseases, but which his friends attributed to a general breakdown, Mr. Low had devoted himself almost exclusively to finding a solution of the differences between the railroad brotherhoods and their employers, and even after he was stricken he continued to keep in touch with the heads of the organizations and to buy himself with plans of the National Civic Federation.

Son of Tom Merchant.
Seth Low, once Mayor of New York, was the son of Tom Merchant, a well-known merchant, who was born in Brooklyn in 1859. He was the son of an old merchant, a sea merchant, one of the great men of the city, who was an American, a merchant, who was an American, a merchant, who was an American.

Mr. Low, who was born in Brooklyn in 1859, was the son of an old merchant, a sea merchant, one of the great men of the city, who was an American, a merchant, who was an American, a merchant, who was an American. He was the son of an old merchant, a sea merchant, one of the great men of the city, who was an American, a merchant, who was an American, a merchant, who was an American.

SIR CAVENTISH BOYLE.
Was Governor of Newfoundland in 1901-04 and 47 Years Old.

London, Sept. 17.—Sir Caversham Boyle, who was Governor of Newfoundland from 1901 to 1904, died here today. He was born in 1849, and was knighted in 1897. He was Colonial Secretary of Bermuda from 1892 to 1893, and Government Secretary in British Guiana from 1894 to 1901, and was delegate for British Guiana and Bermuda in reciprocity negotiations with the United States in 1898.

Starts Reform Work.
Before he was 20 years old he had been with other men of wealth in establishing the Brooklyn Board of Charities, sometimes known as the "Society of the Friends of the Poor," which was organized in 1870, and in 1875 he was a partner, later taking over the business. But his ambitions did not lie in the domain of charity. He became interested in public affairs, and in 1882 withdrew from active participation in the firm business and entered upon a political career.

COL. JOHN H. BEACON.
Died as Result of Heart Failure in Columbia Dublin.

COLUMBIA, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Col. John H. Beacon, Sixth Infantry, U. S. A., died of heart failure today in Columbia, Dublin, according to news received at army headquarters. He was stricken while preparing to leave for California, Cal., to command a brigade of National Guard troops encamped at that place.

SYDNEY PAGET.
Well Known American Turfman Dies in London.

London, Sept. 17.—Sydney Paget, well known turfman, died in London Saturday. Mr. Paget at one time managed the racing of the late William C. Whitney and for many years lived in New York. His widow is a daughter of William P. Island of Philadelphia. Mr. Paget was 53 years old.

His Work for Columbia.
When Mr. Low became president of Columbia the institution consisted of four families, it was attended by only 11 students, the building of the college was estimated at $100,000 and the buildings were crowded into narrow quarters bordering upon the tracks of the New York Central Railway in East Fourth street.

When he resigned as president the officers of instruction adopted minutes stating that the institution now consisted of nine families, that its collection of students were attended by 1,500 students, that its library contained $11,000 worth, that the wealth of its corporation was estimated at $1,000,000, and that the value of the property was $1,000,000. Mr. Low himself, and finally the university was located on an incomparable site.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

SETH LOW, dead at the age of 66, educator and publicist, was Mayor of Brooklyn 1881-1883, Mayor of New York 1902-1903 and president of Columbia University 1890-1901.

Mr. Low belonged to numerous societies. He was president of the Archaeological Society of America, the Geographical Society of New York, the New York Academy of Political Science, the National Civic Federation. His clubs were the Century, Metropolitan, City, Republican, Downtown, Authors, Barnard, Columbia and Hamilton.

SIR CAVENTISH BOYLE.
Was Governor of Newfoundland in 1901-04 and 47 Years Old.

Starts Reform Work.
Before he was 20 years old he had been with other men of wealth in establishing the Brooklyn Board of Charities, sometimes known as the "Society of the Friends of the Poor," which was organized in 1870, and in 1875 he was a partner, later taking over the business. But his ambitions did not lie in the domain of charity. He became interested in public affairs, and in 1882 withdrew from active participation in the firm business and entered upon a political career.

COL. JOHN H. BEACON.
Died as Result of Heart Failure in Columbia Dublin.

COLUMBIA, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Col. John H. Beacon, Sixth Infantry, U. S. A., died of heart failure today in Columbia, Dublin, according to news received at army headquarters. He was stricken while preparing to leave for California, Cal., to command a brigade of National Guard troops encamped at that place.

SYDNEY PAGET.
Well Known American Turfman Dies in London.

London, Sept. 17.—Sydney Paget, well known turfman, died in London Saturday. Mr. Paget at one time managed the racing of the late William C. Whitney and for many years lived in New York. His widow is a daughter of William P. Island of Philadelphia. Mr. Paget was 53 years old.

His Work for Columbia.
When Mr. Low became president of Columbia the institution consisted of four families, it was attended by only 11 students, the building of the college was estimated at $100,000 and the buildings were crowded into narrow quarters bordering upon the tracks of the New York Central Railway in East Fourth street.

When he resigned as president the officers of instruction adopted minutes stating that the institution now consisted of nine families, that its collection of students were attended by 1,500 students, that its library contained $11,000 worth, that the wealth of its corporation was estimated at $1,000,000, and that the value of the property was $1,000,000. Mr. Low himself, and finally the university was located on an incomparable site.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

5 KILLED AS MOTOR RAMS BRIDGE RAIL

Victims of Gay Party of 11 Hurled From Willis Avenue Structure 25 Feet

SIX ARE SEVERELY HURT

Woman Dies When Bus, Returning From Church, Smashes Into Tree.

Five persons were killed and six others hurt in the wrecking of an automobile on the Willis Avenue bridge over the Harlem River early yesterday morning. One of the injured may die. The car, which was taken out by one of the party without the owner's permission, and which carried the party to a number of cafes in Manhattan and The Bronx, suddenly shot across the footwalk on the bridge and rammed the bridge rail on the right side. Then it hit a supporting pillar and crumpled up. The four who lost their lives were thrown from the bridge and fell twenty-five feet to the pavement in 12th street under the Manhattan approach.

The Dead.
Hair, Thomas, 27 years old, a chauffeur, of 235 East 124th street.
Hankle, Hyman, 24 years old, a watchman, of 214 East 111st street.
Newman, Mrs. May, 24 years old, of 235 East 124th street.
Spangenberg, 24 years old, a chauffeur, of 1192 Washington avenue, The Bronx.
Wilson, Miss, 1143 Tinton avenue, The Bronx.

The Injured.
The injured were:
Burns, William, 25, 243 East 122d street.
Diane, Thomas, 32, 2382 Second avenue.
Flannery, Daniel, 25, iron worker, 424 East 125th street.
Hart, Mae, 21, 370 East 137th street.
Kane, Francis, 26, 738 Second avenue.
Newman, Frank, a plumber, 26, 335 122d street.

Kane, who was driving, suffered a fractured skull and may die. All except Diane were removed to the Harlem Hospital. He was taken to the Sydenham Hospital.

The ride began when Hair took the automobile of Robert W. Carter, located supplies, 10th street and the East River, and began to collect his friends. Miss Hart joined the party at Salzer's Harlem River Casino. She said that she drank nothing and that Kane didn't either.

COL. JOHN H. BEACON.
Died as Result of Heart Failure in Columbia Dublin.

COLUMBIA, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Col. John H. Beacon, Sixth Infantry, U. S. A., died of heart failure today in Columbia, Dublin, according to news received at army headquarters. He was stricken while preparing to leave for California, Cal., to command a brigade of National Guard troops encamped at that place.

SYDNEY PAGET.
Well Known American Turfman Dies in London.

London, Sept. 17.—Sydney Paget, well known turfman, died in London Saturday. Mr. Paget at one time managed the racing of the late William C. Whitney and for many years lived in New York. His widow is a daughter of William P. Island of Philadelphia. Mr. Paget was 53 years old.

His Work for Columbia.
When Mr. Low became president of Columbia the institution consisted of four families, it was attended by only 11 students, the building of the college was estimated at $100,000 and the buildings were crowded into narrow quarters bordering upon the tracks of the New York Central Railway in East Fourth street.

When he resigned as president the officers of instruction adopted minutes stating that the institution now consisted of nine families, that its collection of students were attended by 1,500 students, that its library contained $11,000 worth, that the wealth of its corporation was estimated at $1,000,000, and that the value of the property was $1,000,000. Mr. Low himself, and finally the university was located on an incomparable site.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

Flights Cost of Living.
In 1913 Mr. Low and some of his friends got up a movement which they hoped would help solve the high cost of living by the organization of a farm colony. At that time he had been doing much as a farmer on his place in Westchester county. He had closed out his other property holdings at Newport two years before—property which came to him when his father died. His real estate among his three children at his death in 1902.

Law Teachers Quit.
While Mr. Low was president of Columbia the law school became disaffected with the way that the university was administered and a number of them resigned to form the New York Law School, established in New York City. In 1910 the law school was merged with the law school of the Columbia Law School.

5,000 N. Y. GUARD IN BIG MANOEUVRE

First Brigade to Start Wednesday on Problem to Save Theoretical Ally.

ACTION FOR ALL ARMS

Military Funeral for Private Cohn—Chaplain Cadman Coming Home on Leave.

HEADQUARTERS NEW YORK DIVISION, McALEEN, Tex., Sept. 17.—A two day field maneuver and combat exercise for the First Brigade, including the cavalry and other auxiliary troops, is planned by division headquarters for this week. The problem, which includes a march to Hidalgo and an encampment over night there, was to start tomorrow, but heavy rains of the last few days have left the roads altogether impassable. If the weather permits the column will move out on Wednesday.

Brig-Gen. James W. Lester, in command, will have the Seventh, Twelfth and Sixty-ninth Infantry, the Second Battalion of the Second Field Artillery, one company of Engineers, the Signal Corps and Third Amphibious Company, separate Squadron and one squadron of the First Cavalry to be designated by Col. C. E. DeBevoise. This will make a total of approximately 5,000 men.

No service ammunition will be carried by any soldier or upon any animal, but service ammunition provided for combat wagons will be carried, although service will be provided to see that none of this is used or drawn upon. The control officers, who will be identified by white belt bands, will be chosen from the division staff, regular army officers now at McAllen and from the Second Brigade at El Paso.

The general situation, out of which a special problem will be defined, is as follows:

POLICE GUARD SPEEDERS.
Mr. and Mrs. Ingalls Dash to Home of Daughter, Ill.

Thrown From Running Board.
Frederick C. Hicks of Barker's Point, Port Washington, Congressman from the New York district, was pitched on his head from the running board of an automobile and rendered unconscious Saturday night near the Wampage Shores estate, Long Island, as he was returning home from a party at the residence of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. He did not recover consciousness until yesterday, but he will recover.

Horace White's Funeral Today.
The funeral of Horace White, vice-president of the Evening Post Publishing Company, who died at his home, 18 West Sixty-ninth street, on Saturday night, will be held this afternoon at 2:30 in the choir of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Salutation!
The Fall Season is here.

And Saks Clothes for Men, in all the glory of their Autumn colorings and their new and novel lines, are assembled for a swift advance into Fall and Winter territory.

Suits and Overcoats by the thousands, the fabrics setting new boundaries in the realm of design, the models interpreting with mirror-like fidelity the cleverest 5th Avenue astonishments in clothes.

But enough for today.
This is just a reminder that the Fall Season is Here—and Saks Clothes are There as usual!

Fall Suits, $17.50 to $50
Fall Overcoats, $15.00 to $38

Get yours today!

Saks & Company
Broadway at 34th Street
Sole New York Agents

Salutation!
The Fall Season is here.

And Saks Clothes for Men, in all the glory of their Autumn colorings and their new and novel lines, are assembled for a swift advance into Fall and Winter territory.

Suits and Overcoats by the thousands, the fabrics setting new boundaries in the realm of design, the models interpreting with mirror-like fidelity the cleverest 5th Avenue astonishments in clothes.

But enough for today.
This is just a reminder that the Fall Season is Here—and Saks Clothes are There as usual!

Fall Suits, $17.50 to $50
Fall Overcoats, $15.00 to $38

Get yours today!

Saks & Company
Broadway at 34th Street
Sole New York Agents

Salutation!
The Fall Season is here.

And Saks Clothes for Men, in all the glory of their Autumn colorings and their new and novel lines, are assembled for a swift advance into Fall and Winter territory.

Suits and Overcoats by the thousands, the fabrics setting new boundaries in the realm of design, the models interpreting with mirror-like fidelity the cleverest 5th Avenue astonishments in clothes.

5,000 N. Y. GUARD IN BIG MANOEUVRE

First Brigade to Start Wednesday on Problem to Save Theoretical Ally.

ACTION FOR ALL ARMS

Military Funeral for Private Cohn—Chaplain Cadman Coming Home on Leave.

HEADQUARTERS NEW YORK DIVISION, McALEEN, Tex., Sept. 17.—A two day field maneuver and combat exercise for the First Brigade, including the cavalry and other auxiliary troops, is planned by division headquarters for this week. The problem, which includes a march to Hidalgo and an encampment over night there, was to start tomorrow, but heavy rains of the last few days have left the roads altogether impassable. If the weather permits the column will move out on Wednesday.

Brig-Gen. James W. Lester, in command, will have the Seventh, Twelfth and Sixty-ninth Infantry, the Second Battalion of the Second Field Artillery, one company of Engineers, the Signal Corps and Third Amphibious Company, separate Squadron and one squadron of the First Cavalry to be designated by Col. C. E. DeBevoise. This will make a total of approximately 5,000 men.

No service ammunition will be carried by any soldier or upon any animal, but service ammunition provided for combat wagons will be carried, although service will be provided to see that none of this is used or drawn upon. The control officers, who will be identified by white belt bands, will be chosen from the division staff, regular army officers now at McAllen and from the Second Brigade at El Paso.

The general situation, out of which a special problem will be defined, is as follows:

POLICE GUARD SPEEDERS.
Mr. and Mrs. Ingalls Dash to Home of Daughter, Ill.

Thrown From Running Board.
Frederick C. Hicks of Barker's Point, Port Washington, Congressman from the New York district, was pitched on his head from the running board of an automobile and rendered unconscious Saturday night near the Wampage Shores estate, Long Island, as he was returning home from a party at the residence of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. He did not recover consciousness until yesterday, but he will recover.

Horace White's Funeral Today.
The funeral of Horace White, vice-president of the Evening Post Publishing Company, who died at his home, 18 West Sixty-ninth street, on Saturday night, will be held this afternoon at 2:30 in the choir of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Salutation!
The Fall Season is here.

And Saks Clothes for Men, in all the glory of their Autumn colorings and their new and novel lines, are assembled for a swift advance into Fall and Winter territory.

Suits and Overcoats by the thousands, the fabrics setting new boundaries in the realm of design, the models interpreting with mirror-like fidelity the cleverest 5th Avenue astonishments in clothes.

But enough for today.
This is just a reminder